

2024 1st Taiwan International Model United Nations Meeting (TIMUN)

1. Background of the Event

Model United Nations (MUN), is an international academic exchange activity. Many countries, cities, and schools worldwide have their own MUN clubs or have held related activities. With an emphasis on diversified education and international integration, Taiwan has also begun organizing MUN conferences through youth forums and workshops. Nearly a hundred universities and high schools of Taiwan have established MUN clubs, highlighting the importance of MUN.

In MUN, participants play the role of representatives from countries other than their own, engaging in negotiations and discussions. By acting as diplomats from different countries, participants must step out of their usual perspectives and view issues from the standpoint of their assigned country. They must carefully judge how decisions will impact their country's interests, consider their stance, make statements, and simulate policies. Finally, participants must negotiate with representatives from other countries to reach a consensus.

This event is co-hosted by the Commerce Development Research Institute (CDRI), the Model United Nations Society Taiwan (MST), and the Longteng Education Co., Ltd. (Longteng Education). It aims to foster students' international perspectives, empathy, and cross-cultural communication skills through MUN discussions. By simulating international conference proceedings, students can understand the importance of procedural rules, strengthen their international knowledge, skills, and sense of national mission, and enhance their international competitiveness. Acting as diplomats to analyze international current affairs, students will develop critical thinking, reflection, diverse perspectives, and the ability to participate in global actions.

The event lasts two days, including three simulation sessions. The first day features the opening ceremony, training sessions, and the first simulation meeting. Training sessions will introduce MUN, familiarize participants with parliamentary procedures, research and data collection techniques, and practice drafting meeting documents. The second day includes the second and the third simulation sessions, and a practical course on international etiquette. After all the meetings and course, there will be a group photo, closing ceremony and the awards ceremony.

All three session topics align with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and are related to themes from the United Nations and international committees, focusing on quality education, gender equality, social security, food resources, and climate change.

3 topics will be discussed during the two-day event. The discussion topics will align with the global Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and combine themes from the United Nations and related international councils, covering issues such as quality education, gender equality, social security, food resources, and climate change. The topics are as follows:

Topic 1: The Economic Challenges of Public Health Crisis to The Governments

- Category: Public Safety Risk Management
- Committee: World Health Organization (WHO)
- Introduction: The outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic in 2019 has had significant impacts in various aspects, especially on the global economy. Issues such as supply chain disruptions, business closures, and rising unemployment rates have placed heavy economic burdens on governments worldwide. Participants should discuss this topic, exploring the chain reactions in business and the economy caused by a major public health crisis, and delve into how economic policies, business support measures, and international cooperation can mitigate these challenges.
- Related SDGs: SDG 1 (No Poverty), SDG 3 (Good Health and Well-Being), SDG 8 (Decent Work and Economic Growth)

Topic 2: The Impact of Wars and Conflicts on Global Economic Stability

- Category: International Security and Humanitarian Affairs
- Committee: United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC)
- Introduction: The Russia-Ukraine War, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, the Sudan civil war, and the Congo civil war....., conflicts and wars continue to erupt around the world, causing severe humanitarian crises and disrupting global economic stability. Issues such as supply chain disruptions, energy price fluctuations, and obstacles to international trade exert enormous pressure on the global market. Participants should explore how the problems brought about by wars and conflicts affect the global economy, and discuss how international cooperation, economic sanctions, and other measures can prevent the situation from worsening and avoid similar issues from recurring in the future.
- Related SDGs: SDG 8 (Decent Work and Economic Growth), SDG 9 (Industry, Innovation and Infrastructure), SDG 16 (Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions)

Topic 3: The Economic Benefits of Green Energy Development

- Category: Environmental Sustainability
- Committee: International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA)
- Introduction: With the rising global awareness of environmental protection, the green energy industry has become a new engine for economic development in various countries. The application of renewable energies such as solar, wind, and hydropower not only helps reduce the use of fossil but also creates numerous job opportunities, drives technological innovation, and promotes economic growth. Participants should discuss the positive impacts of green energy development on the global economy and propose policy recommendations to promote the development of the green energy industry, including tax incentives, investment incentives, and international cooperation.
